U S ... as we really are ... ourselves ... working, cheering, grinning, playing ... being a part, yet being an individual ...

We are alive, moving, running, racing, winning ... daring anything to stop us ... to the left ... to the right ... up or down ... in motion.

We are vibrant, anxious, energetic, expressive, colorful ...

We are worried, sympathetic ... we cry, we fret ...

We are failure ... we are success ...

We are peaceful ... thinking, hoping, yearning, planning, pretending ...

We are small yet we are great ... we are the many things that are youth ...

We are U S.

"Ah -h-h-h-h-choo!"

"Well, it's not the Ed Sullivan show, but it's a start."

THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF BROTHER GREEN

Tricks are for kids!

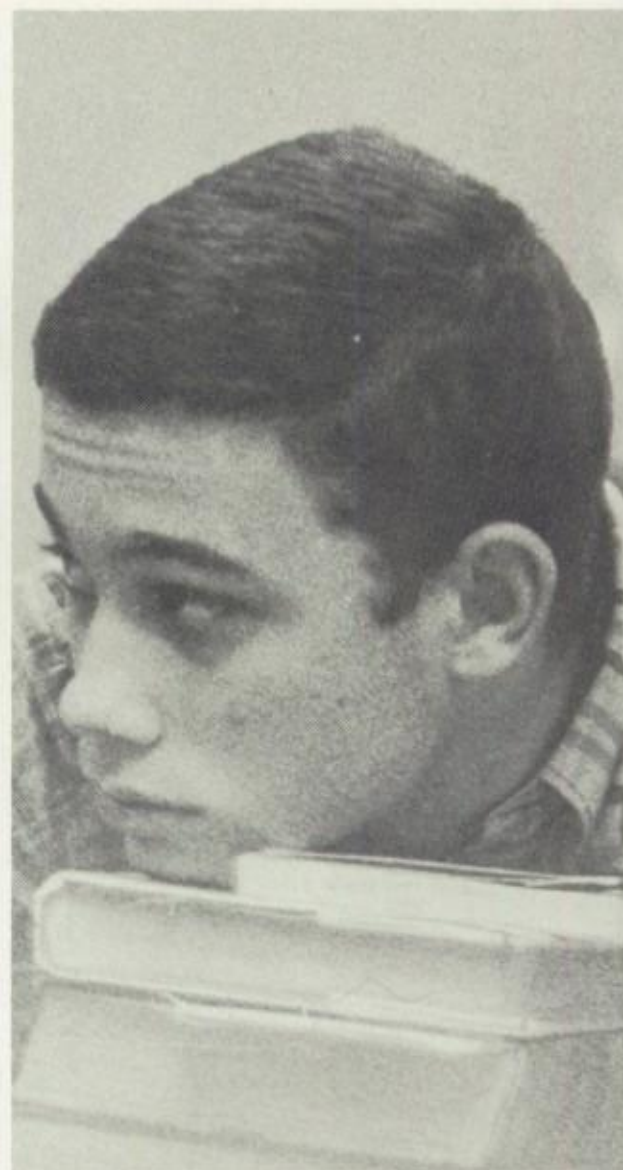

"I love a parade."

"... Yes, Mother, I'll be home early ..."

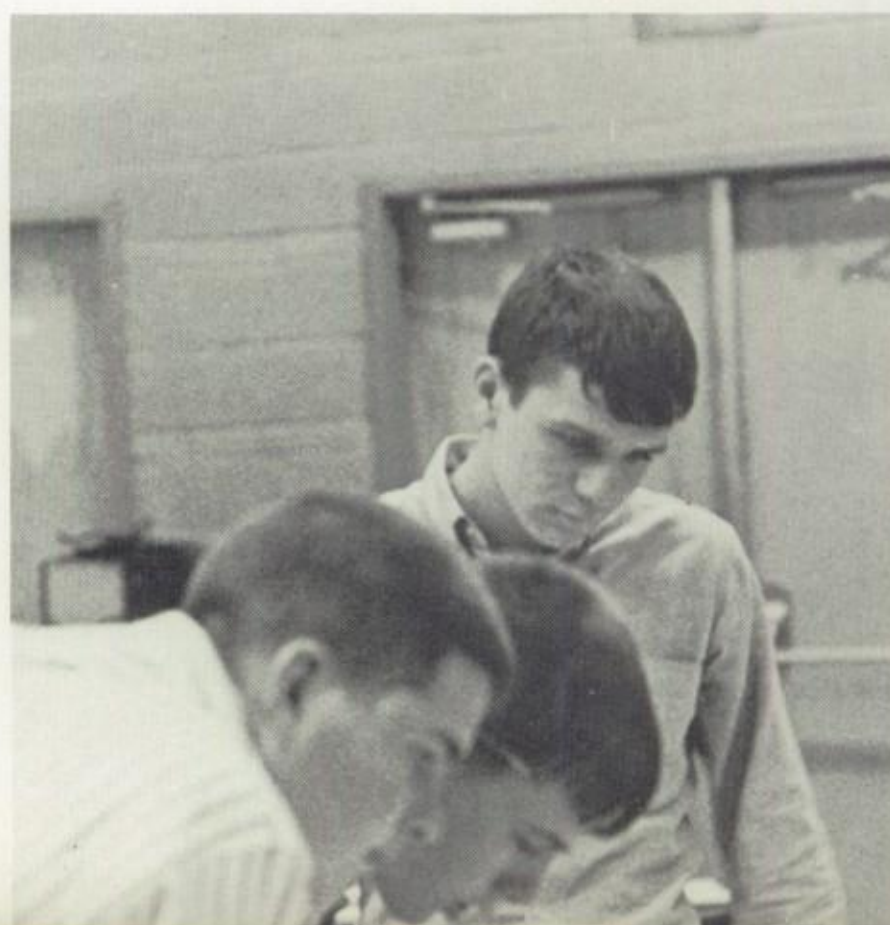

I wonder if she knows ...

That last frame was your finger!

Ten to one--my turtle gets to the door before yours.

THE THREE STOOGES

Oh, no, not BARKER'S ankle !

Pardon me, but can you teach me how to play this baton?

"Ban takes the worry out of being close."

Oops--my foot's caught in my Bermudas.

We finally caught that "show off"!

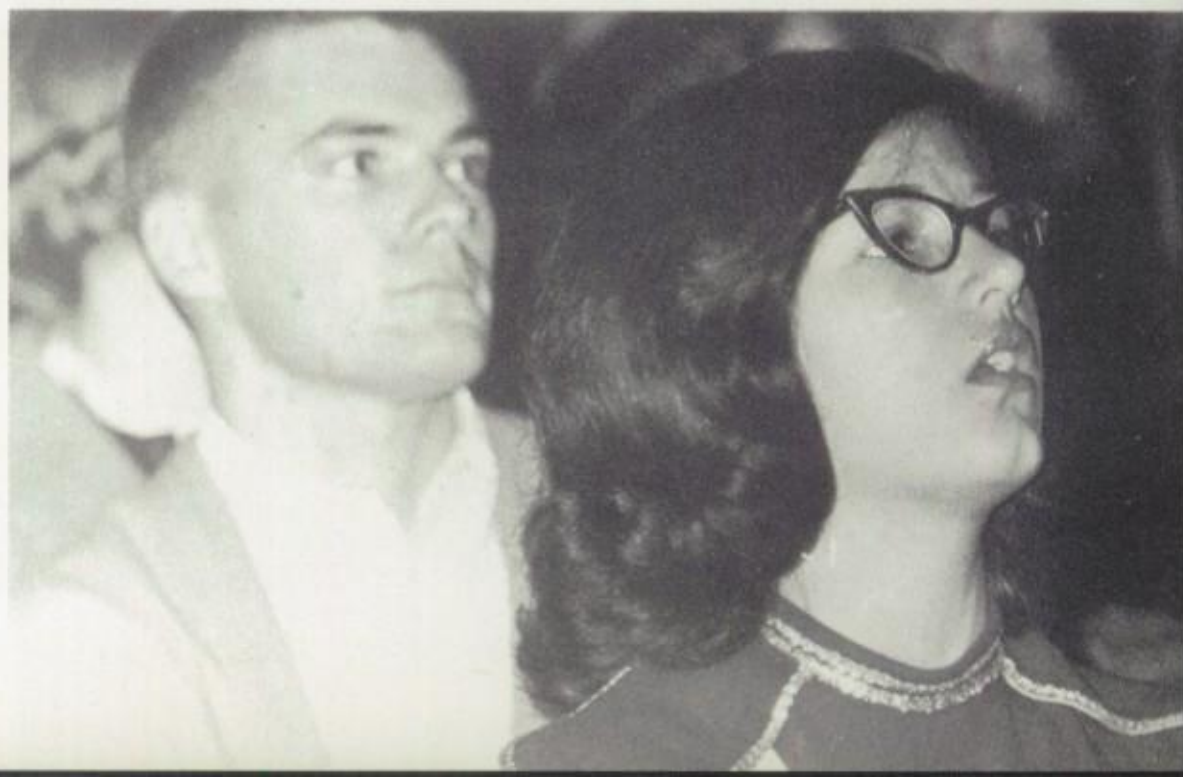

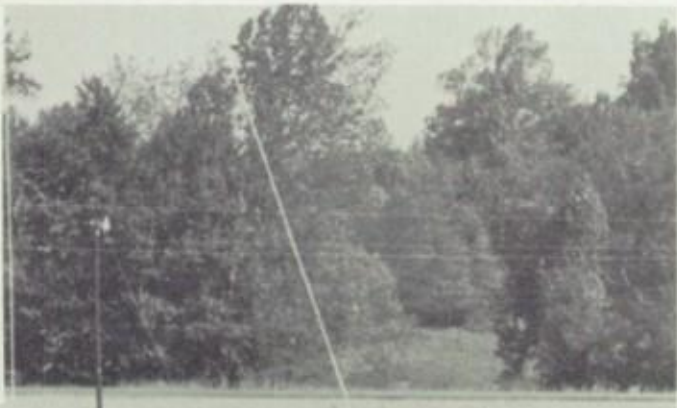

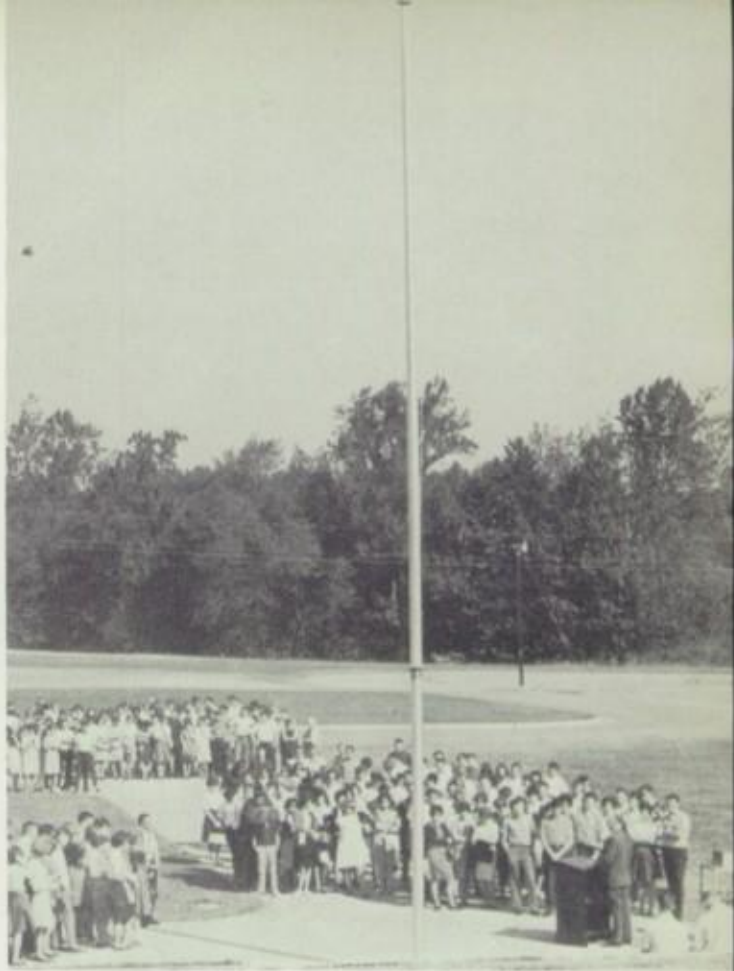

Do you really think Beethoven's 5th is appropriate?

Please Jo Lee, I'd rather do it myself!

A black and white photograph of a school hallway. The hallway is long and brightly lit, with a polished floor that reflects the overhead lights. On the left side, there are large windows and a row of lockers. On the right side, there are more lockers and a small table with chairs. A large, dark 'X' graphic is overlaid on the image, extending from the corners towards the center. In the foreground, the lower legs and feet of several people walking are visible, moving from left to right. The overall mood is quiet and somewhat somber.

*Life sets forth an obligation,
To each man his own.
And though it may not be material,
It is just as bold.
To fulfill it, a man must know it
And strive to make it count.
Nevertheless how small, it will count,
God's hand has many fingers.
Each one touching on a minute deed,
Feeling warm and satisfied.*
